OCTOBER 2020

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

This year is passing at once fast and, at once, slow. When we were putting things away after the Pancake Breakfast last year in preparation for 2020, no one expected to cruise into such a chaotic October landing, in spite of it being a presidential election year. In the wake of the governor's edicts regarding COVID 19, the Nevada Day Pancake Breakfast has since been cancelled, along with almost every other traditional celebration to which we looked forward. In spite of all that, CCRW has continued to thrive, and may possibly be the fastest growing club in the Nevada Federation of Republican Women. Our Monthly Luncheon Meetings resumed in August, with masks and social distancing, at the elegant Duke's Steakhouse. They were sold-out on each date. Our monthly evening Board meetings at Glen Eagles are enthusiastically attended. Our New Members event was a hit and wonderful success. We are lucky to have 2nd V.P. for Membership Joann Mathis, who went ahead with planning the event in the face of potential cancellation. Our members desperately needed something refreshing to look forward to, and the sparkling and elegant outdoor reception at Glen Eagles was sold out. We may have limped through a few months of government shutdown on Zoom, but we are back!!

In the governor's address last week, he said we may now allow more attendees at our events, so we will be moving back to the Grand Ballroom at Casino Fandango for October. The timing is excellent, as Congressman Mark Amodei is our confirmed Speaker. The last time he was scheduled we sold out in three days. We are fortunate the Fandango can expand the walls for the ballroom, so we can maintain healthful social distancing with increased attendance.

Shameless plug here, I'll keep it short: The Trump rally here pushed our collective morale over the top! At every event since then, President Trump mentioned the overwhelming turnout in Minden. As if 2020 wasn't crazy enough, who would have thought we'd be having a 40,000-plus peaceful lovefest in what Chris Wallace calls "Nowhere Nevada"? 'Vegas may have 70% of the voting population, but the Cow Counties still matter!

The Nevada Day Parade and Pancake Breakfast are cancelled, but the Chili Feed at the Carson Nugget is still a go and is being pursued with gusto. Secretary of State Cegavske and Senator Settlemeyer are sponsoring the event again this year, and CCRW will be helping with the noontime event. We will need 15-20 volunteers between 12-2 p.m. at The Nugget on October 31st. If you are interested in helping us out, contact me and we'll get you to roll up your sleeves and have a good time.

Like I said, some things about this year flew by, and it's already time to elect our new slate of officers. According to Nominating Committee Chair Mary Burgoon, the slate of CCRW officers for 2021 will be announced at the October luncheon meeting. At that time we will also take nominations from the floor. The officers will be elected in November, and they will be installed at the Christmas Installation Dinner in December.

I hope this newsletter finds you healthy, and in the same good spirits that have kept Northern Nevadans buoyant and optimistic through this dark night of the soul. I'll see you at the polls, and we'll straighten our cowboy hats and vote out the failed liberal experiment. We will bring back integrity, law and order, and bring back our beautiful Silver State to a sterling gleam.

Warmest Nevada Regards,

Sherese Settlemeyer, CCRW PRESIDENT

MEMBERSHIP

Membership Chair & 2nd VP Joann Mathis

Our new member event, which was held at Glen Eagles on September 23rd, was a great success! New members were able to meet our board members, each of whom gave a brief description of what their committees do and encouraged the new members to join them. This is a very eager group of new members! We have had many new members join our club since January and they want to be active. It's the Trump effect! The challenge to our membership is to welcome all these ladies and wisely use their enthusiasm! To all the committee chairs, now is the perfect time to energize your committees with these new members.

Another big challenge for us is to keep all of our members active as we can only have 50 members at our monthly luncheons. Our club is now at the 150 member mark, so please let me know your thoughts and ideas on how best to keep our present and new members challenged and active. Some of our new members are already volunteering at Republican headquarters, which is greatly appreciated!

A reminder to all members – if you have called in your luncheon reservations it is very important that you cancel as soon as possible if you cannot make it. We have a waiting list of ladies that we call if there have been cancellations. The club is obligated to the facility to pay for a specific, limited number of lunches and if we have a few no shows at $25.00 a person this is costly to our treasury!

Yesterday is history, tomorrow is a mystery, but today is a gift. That is why it is called the present!

CCRW BOD members who spoke at the New Member event included (above) Joann Mathis (Membership), Jesse Vettel, (Americanism), Carolee Berglan (Caring for America), Lori Bagwell (Evites, Reservations), Sandy Cashion (Hospitality), Angela LoGiurato (Pancake Breakfast, Immed. Past Pres.), Janice Baldwin (Satellite Group) and Laura Fitz (Scholarship).

CCRW SEPTEMBER LUNCHEON—DUKE'S STEAKHOUSE, CASINO FANDANGO

SPEAKER: MAURICE WHITE

CANDIDATE—CARSON CITY SUPERVISOR

MAMIE EISENHOWER LITERACY PROGRAM (M.E.L.P.)

Chair: Sandy Markoe

The National Federation of Republican Women annually provides clubs a list of suggested books that are significant to Republicans and the community. Every year this list is presented by the CCRW to the Carson City Library. Our Club donates $100 toward their purchase of books from this list. I have presented this list to Rachel March, CC Librarian. Upon her receipt of the books ordered, she will notify me so I can prepare bookplates for them and provide her a check from the Club. Our Club has done this for many years and we are proud to be able to support the local library.

CARING FOR AMERICA

Carolee Berglan, Chair
841-1732

Autumn is here! Time to enjoy the beauty of the fall colors. Guess we will ALL be wearing "masks" for Halloween this year! (Oct. 31) Remember, too, that November 1st is when Daylight Saving Time ends.

The Northern Nevada Dream Center is such a blessing to Carson City. Susan Sorenson is the Executive Director and they do an outstanding job in helping clothe, feed, educate and help people get back in the work force. CCRW collects monetary donations in the tall, round cylinders at every monthly luncheon. In September, YOU donated $84.00 to them. They also need donations of "gently used" clothing for men, women and children. Please help them do what they do, so well! Thank You!

Paws Up For Veterans provide Service Dogs for combat veterans that live with Post Traumatic Stress Syndrome (PTSD), Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI) and some mobility issues. Because each Veteran stepped up and risked it all for America, they are not charged for their Service Dog. At our September luncheon, YOU donated $86.00 to this "cause". Thank you for your caring and generosity!

CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocate) is in need of smaller roll-type suitcases, larger backpacks and duffel bags. Also, be on the look-out for the smaller "rolled" fleece throws. You help a needy or abused child "smile" when they know somebody cares. Thank You!

Advocates To End Domestic Violence need "gently used" clothing for women and children and household items. (twin-size bedding, blankets, towels and a variety of paper goods). You can really make a difference by donating to someone who possibly comes to their shelter with nothing. Please help if you can.

"Kindness Thursdays" at the Senior Center is on hold until the Senior Center dining room opens again. Our "Kindness Team" consists of these, eager to help, ladies: Julie Landenberger, Kaye Keeton, Kim Angelo, Mike Gutter, Pat Wentworth, Taunya Milligan, Joy Trushenski and myself.

Since the General Election is November 3rd, I'll close with a quotable by Robert Kennedy: "Elections remind us not only of the rights but the responsibilities of citizenship". May God continue to bless America.

THE HERITAGE FOUNDATION—Commentary by

Andrew Olivastro—Director, Coalition Relations

Mike Gonzalez—Senior Fellow, Center for Foreign Policy

“Like the Soviets, Black Lives Matter Purges its History”

KEY TAKEAWAYS

- Support varies by demographic, but the findings are unanimous: The more we know, the less we like.
- The BLM organization is employing the well-known Soviet practice of purging history.
- The BLM organizations were never about affirming the foundational truth of equality for all Americans. They want wholesale submission to their devastating ideology.

The Black Lives Matter organizations that swiftly captured the nation’s attention have expeditiously and quietly been softening their rhetoric and removing the most un-American statements from their websites. This is because the millions poised to agree with the slogan Black Lives Matter began distancing themselves from these organizations as their true intentions came to light.

From June through September, as people learned more about the destructive beliefs of the BLM organizations, support dropped 9 points in a Politico-Morning Consult poll. A second Pew Research poll also recorded a 9-point drop among those who strongly support the movement and an overall 12-point drop among U.S. adults.

Support varies by demographic, but the findings are unanimous: The more we know, the less we like.

In response, the BLM organization is employing the well-known Soviet practice of purging history.

“With little fanfare, Black Lives Matter removed a section of text that had been under a section called ‘What We Believe’ that sought to engender the destruction ... of the nuclear family structure,” reports The Post Millennial, a Canadian news organization.

As Matt Walsh writes in The Daily Wire, “With its direct opposition to the nuclear family, BLM had positioned itself on the fringes of the fringes of the fringe.”

Also removed was the communist word “comrade,” put there on purpose as a wink to fellow Marxists and now removed so the rest of the country won’t catch on.

Rather than clear the air, “page not found” feels like a head fake that isn’t worthy of the moment.

In addition to dwindling public support, major donors have also moved away from the radical BLM organizations. Many iconic brands that declared their support for black lives after the horrific killing of George Floyd are doing so without giving to radical Marxist groups.

The CEOs of America’s largest companies, through their membership in the Business Roundtable, have an entire site dedicated to the more than \$6 billion that has been so far dedicated to “public policy solutions and corporate initiatives to advance racial equity and justice.” Travel across the more than 80 links on the page and you see that these major employers are spreading their shareholder’s wealth around—and purposefully funneling it far away from the BLM organizations.

The list of programs include Apple and PepsiCo’s hiring efforts, AT&T’s direct spending with U.S.-owned black suppliers, and Boeing’s investment in long-held community partnerships.

We applaud these profit-making capitalist enterprises for their awareness that it isn’t wise to bankroll communists intent on smashing capitalism.

BLM’s response to this massive abandonment isn’t statements of clarity, or even a reconsideration of its mission. It’s greater obfuscation—a lesson in public opinion warfare it perhaps picked up from friends in the Chinese Communist Party.

For example, in her Sept. 11 announcement being named executive director for the Black Lives Matter Global Network Foundation—the umbrella organization for the BLM global movement—Patrisse Cullors said nothing about the economy, jobs, or opportunity. Instead, the reader is treated to language about “cellular renewal,” capacity building, and organizational transition.

Readers will remember Cullors as one of the original founders of the BLM organization and a self-proclaimed Marxist. She and another co-founder, Opal Tometi, can be seen in this video praising Joanne Chesimard, also known as Assata Shakur—a communist convicted cop-killer who is now a fugitive in Cuba—and chanting the communist slogan, “We have nothing to lose but our chains.”

The only goal Cullors mentions in her announcement is “to ensure BLM grassroots has the tools and resources it needs to strengthen our movement on-the-ground.”

She's back in charge—an affirmation of who they are at the core. All that's changing is how they talk about themselves and how we might perceive them. Put another way, BLM is selling a product that no one is buying.

There's no apology for riots that cost lives, ruined property, and channeled youthful, productive energies into unproductive activities—the rewards of which are permanent arrest records for untold thousands of our fellow citizens.

There's no recognition that a guillotine outside Jeff Bezos' Washington, D.C., home is an affront to those who aspire to choose their own path and voluntarily participate in the one economic system that has lifted more people out of poverty and generated more wealth than any other.

There's no appreciation for fundamental truths about human development. That traditional family structures—as scientific consensus proves and our shared neighborhood experiences reveal—are what best position children and adults for better health, emotional well-being, and more.

The BLM organizations were never about affirming the foundational truth of equality for all Americans. They want wholesale submission to their devastating ideology.

Their verbal gymnastics and sleight of hand will continue. Even changing their name to "Blacks Loathe Marxism" wouldn't excuse us from examining their words.

We wager that future polls will show further erosion of support. Donors will continue to give money to other organizations that are trying to bring benefits to individuals and communities.

A movement that is trying to divide us will find that we still have much in common, that the American dream comes in all colors, and we share an unshakeable belief in it and each other.
